

LITERARY NOTES.

Mr. H. C. Bunner is engaged upon a story—rather a long one—which, it is understood, will go into the Century when finished. Mr. Bunner's book of poems, which promises to be a collection of graceful and truly imaginative verse, will come in a few days from the press of the Scribners. The book is to be divided into "Arcadia," "Bohemia," "Philistia" and "Elsewhere."

The full title of Mr. Blackmore's new novel reminds one of the titles of the eighteenth century. It is "The Remarkable History of Sir Thomas Upmore, Bart., M. P., formerly known as 'Tommy Upmore'." It will be published abroad in two volumes.

The edition of Wendell Phillips's speeches and addresses, which is coming out in Boston, is to be sold at a popular, that is to say, a small price. There is material for other volumes in many speeches which have never been collected from the newspapers in which they were reported. Mr. Phillips left but little matter in MS.

Dr. Engle says that the forthcoming memoirs left by Heine show "the beautiful nudity" of the poet's soul. In the introductory chapter Heine energetically protests against any publication without his permission, calling it felony to do so. He expressly exempts these memoirs from the general noli me tangere. The MS. is written in pencil on large, white folio sheets, in a clear but somewhat eastern handwriting, in which the uncomfortable position of the poet in his "mattress-grave" can easily be traced. There is not a sheet on which frequent alterations, both of style and contents, do not occur; but the alterations are, without exception, in Heine's own handwriting, and were evidently made directly after writing the MS. These 129 pages do not cover a large part of Heine's life, as the poet always describes very minutely. The biography stops with Heine's entrance upon manhood, and is chiefly occupied with descriptions of his home, his education, and his first impressions of school and life.

It is reported that Mr. Matthew Arnold has made a huge collection of memoranda on the queer social distinctions in this country.

Mr. Tom Wharton, of Philadelphia, a well-educated youth of twenty-three, and a nephew of Dr. Francis Wharton, is the author of the novel "A Latter-Day Saint." The Review says that the tale is made up from incidents of Philadelphia social life, which are portrayed under a guise of such thinness that is questionable if Mr. Wharton had not done a wider and more detailed work.
